Senator J. William Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, usually casts himself in the role of a bitter critic of administration policy. It is a rare occasion, indeed, when he engages in levity or wit.

As a result, he made news yesterday when he was confronted by newsmen after a closed-door session with W. F. Raborn, director of the super-secret Central Intelligence Agency.

In reply to questions posed by newsmen, Fulbright quipped: "Not only did he not tell us anything, but if he had, I couldn't tell you."
